I. GENERAL PROVISIONS

1. The General Terms and Conditions (hereinafter: GTC) set forth herein are in effect from January 2022 and shall remain effective until revoked. Supplier reserves the right – primarily due to legal changes or changes in business policy – to amend the present GTC.
2. The present GTC shall be applicable to contractual transactions (hereinafter: Contract) concerning domestic sale of machine tools between DMG MORI Hungary Ltd. (hereinafter: Supplier) and the Customers, who according to §8:1 para (1) section 3) are not consumers (hereinafter: Customer) (hereinafter Supplier and Customer jointly referred to as Parties).
3. The statement of the Parties to conclude the Contract and the present GTC together contain the agreement of the Parties (hereinafter: Contract). Different conditions regarding procurement on behalf of the Customer do not become part of the Contract, even by the acceptance of the order. The Contract – in the absence of a different, special agreement – shall be concluded with the Supplier's written confirmation of the order. Any other form or method of contractual statements shall not constitute the conclusion of a contract; they do not bind Supplier to any contractual obligations. Customer acknowledges that at the time of placing an order – without any further legal statement – he accepts the present GTC of the Supplier.
4. The Supplier reserves ownership, all intellectual- and industrial property rights to all samples, cost estimates/quotations, drawings, as well as intellectual and physical forms of similar information – including their electronic forms. These shall not be disclosed to third persons, without the prior written consent of the Supplier. The Supplier undertakes to make information and documents which are designated by the Customer as confidential available to third parties with the Customer's consent only.

II. PRICE AND TERMS OF PAYMENT

1. In default of any special agreement to the contrary, the prices are ex works, including loading at the plant of manufacture, but exclusive of packaging. The prices are exclusive of the value-added tax which has to be paid on top at the statutory rate valid at the time.
2. In default of any special agreement to the contrary, payment is due and payable without any deductions via bank transfer to the Supplier's account as follows:
 - 30% within 10 days from the date of the down payment invoice,
 - 60% within 10 days from the notification to the Customer that the product is ready for dispatch,
 - the remainder: within one month from the passing of the risk.
3. Payment shall be considered fulfilled when the full amount, without any deductions, of the invoice prepared by Supplier is credited to Supplier's bank account. The Customer is only entitled to withhold payments if and to the extent that his counter-claims are undisputed or have been established by a final non-appealable court decision (res judicata). In particular, withholding payment and the inclusion of other claims (e.g. reduction of purchase price, or the party's interest in contractual performance has ceased) are prohibited in the absence of prior written consent from Supplier.
4. In the case of late payment, Supplier – in accordance with the rate set forth in §6:155 of the Civil Code, applicable to business entities – shall charge late-payment interest, as well as other costs incurred arising from late payment, in particular but not limited to provisions set forth under Act IX of 2016.
5. If payment of the partial of the purchase price by the deadline becomes endangered, or if circumstances arise that negatively affect the creditworthiness of the Customer, Supplier may request prior guarantee of the full purchase amount. Supplier – up until the provision of full financial guarantee – at his own discretion – is entitled to withhold performance or withdraw from the Contract, and to claim compensation for damages incurred.

III. DELIVERY DEADLINE, DELAY IN DELIVERY

1. Delivery times set forth in the Supplier's price offer are for information purposes. The representative delivery time for the Contract is provided by the Supplier in the order confirmation. Compliance with such delivery times by the Supplier requires that all commercial and technical issues have been clarified between the contracting parties and that the Customer has fulfilled all obligations incumbent on him such as the provision of any required official certificates or permits or the down payment, etc. If this not the case, the delivery time shall be extended correspondingly. This does not apply if and to the extent that the Supplier is responsible for the delay.
2. If the Supplier is unable to meet binding delivery dates for reasons for which the Supplier is not responsible (non-availability of the performance), the Supplier shall inform the purchaser thereof without undue delay and at the same time notify the purchaser of the expected new delivery time. If the service is also not available within the new delivery period, the Supplier shall be entitled to withdraw from the contract in whole or in part; any counter-performance already rendered by the Customer shall be refunded without delay. A case of non-availability of the performance is assumed in particular in cases of non-timely self-delivery by Suppliers, neither the Supplier nor its own supplier is at fault or the Supplier is not obliged to procure in the individual case.

3. The occurrence of the delay in delivery shall be determined in accordance with the statutory provisions. In any case, however, a reminder by the Customer shall be required. If the Supplier is in default of delivery and the Customer suffers damage as a result, the Customer may claim a compensation as liquidated damages for the damage caused by the delay. The liquidated damages shall amount to 0.5 % of the net price (delivery value) for each completed calendar week of the delay, but in total not more than 5 % of the value of that part of the entire delivery which cannot be used on time or in accordance with the contract as a result of the delay. The Supplier reserves the right to prove that the Customer has not suffered any damage or that the damage is significantly less than the aforementioned liquidated damages.
4. The delivery time is deemed complied with if the goods to be delivered have left the manufacturer's plant by the expiry of the delivery time, and the Customer has been notified of readiness for dispatch. This shall also apply in the case that acceptance and approval of the goods are necessary..
5. If the Customer is in default of acceptance, fails to cooperate or if delivery is delayed for other reasons for which the Customer is responsible, the Supplier shall be entitled to claim compensation for the resulting damage including additional expenses (e.g. storage costs). In this case, a compensation as liquidated damages in the amount of € 250.00/calendar day shall be paid, starting with the delivery date or - in the absence of a delivery date - with the notification that the goods are ready for shipment. If non-compliance with the delivery time is due to force majeure, industrial riots, pandemic or effecting the whole or majority of the workplace another events beyond the Supplier's control, the delivery time will be extended by an adequate period. The Supplier will inform the Customer of the beginning and the end of such circumstances as soon as possible.
6. The Customer is entitled to withdraw from the Contract – without providing a deadline – if entire performance becomes definitely impossible on behalf of the Supplier in, before the risk has been passed. Moreover, the Customer is entitled to withdraw from the contract if in the context of an order the performance of one part of the delivery becomes impossible (partial impossibility) and the Customer has legitimate interest in refusing partial delivery. In the absence of such circumstances, the Customer is obliged to pay such portion of the contractually agreed price as corresponds to the partial delivery. The same shall apply in the case of the Supplier's inability to perform. For all others, Section VII.2. shall be applicable.
7. If the impossibility or inability to perform occurs during a period where the Customer is in default of acceptance or if the Customer is solely or clearly for the most part responsible for said circumstances, the Customer continues to be obliged to render the consideration.
8. Any further claims arising from the delay in delivery are exclusively subject to the provisions in Section VII.2 of the present GTC.

IV. PASSING OF RISK, ACCEPTANCE

1. The risk passes to the Customer as soon the goods to be delivered have left the manufacturer's plant, even in the case that partial deliveries are made or the Supplier has agreed to also perform other services – e.g. acceptance to pay delivery costs, or obligation to deliver and install goods. In the case of an agreed upon acceptance deadline, acceptance of goods shall take place without undue delay, or after notification by the Supplier of the readiness for acceptance. The Customer shall not allowed to refuse acceptance of the goods in case of a minor defect.
2. If the dispatch resp. the acceptance are delayed or omitted for reasons not attributable to the Supplier, the risk passes to the Customer from the day of notification of the readiness for dispatch resp. the readiness for acceptance and approval. The Supplier undertakes to take out at the expense such insurance policies requested by the Customer.

1. The Supplier reserves title to the delivered goods until all payments under the supply contract, including the purchase price and costs of additional services, have been received. If installation or assembly services are to be performed, title to the delivered goods will only pass to the Customer after receipt of remuneration payable for the purchased goods and for assembly services. The provisions set forth in V. 2-10 below pertain to the period of the reservation of the title of ownership.
2. The Supplier is entitled to insure the delivered goods at the expense of the Customer against theft, breakage, damage by fire, water, and other damages, unless the Customer has taken out such an insurance policy and can verify it with credible proof.
3. The Customer may only sell, transfer, or pledge the delivered goods to a third person with the prior written consent of the Supplier. In the case of an attachment or seizure related to criminal activity or other disposal by third parties, the Customer shall be obliged to notify the Supplier without delay.

4. In the case of breach of contract on part of the Customer – in particular, in the case of late payment – the Supplier is entitled to withdraw from the Contract following prior notification to the Customer, and is entitled to request the return of the delivered goods, and the Customer is obliged to return the said goods. Neither the fact that the Supplier invokes the reservation of title nor the seizure of the delivered goods by the Supplier must be deemed to constitute withdrawal from the contract.
5. If the Customer resells the delivered goods in the ordinary course of business, the Customer already now assigns to the Supplier any and all claims up to the final invoice amount (including VAT), which may accrue and may be owing to him by his customers or third parties from the resale, regardless of whether they will accrue or not. The Supplier shall be entitled to collect the assigned claims. For this purpose, the Customer is obliged to send notification to the claimant in accordance with Civil Code § 6:197 para (1) of the assigned claim at the time of the resale, and provide proof of this to the Supplier. Concurrently, the Supplier shall be notified of the respective debtors, and Customer shall provide all information required to collect claims and be required to hand over all relevant documents.

Apart from that, the new good generated by the processing/transformation is subject to the same regulations as the goods delivered subject to the reservation of the title.
7. If the delivered good is inseparably mixed with other goods not belonging to the Supplier, the Supplier shall share title to and become co-owner of the new good in the proportion of the value of the delivered good to that of the other mixed goods at the time of the mixing. If the mixing is made in the way that the good of the Customer must be considered as the main item, the Parties are deemed to have agreed that the Customer transfers to the Supplier pro rata ownership of the new item. The Customer retains the so generated sole-ownership or co-ownership for the Supplier.
8. The Customer assigns to the Supplier those claims by way of security for the Supplier's claim, which arise against a third party from the union of the delivered good with a real estate.
9. The Supplier undertakes to release upon the Customer's request, the security provided to him to the extent that the value of the security exceeds the claims to be secured by more than 20%. The part of the security to be released is chosen by the Supplier in its sole discretion.
10. If a petition in insolvency or bankruptcy is filed, the Supplier will be entitled to withdraw from the Contract and demand immediate return of the delivered goods.
